Dr. Jim Skibo

Archaeologist

Dr. Skibo will share results from the 2010 archaeological exploration on Grand Island's Murray Bay.

This successful US Forest Service-sponsored Archaeological Project has revealed an array of artifacts that have helped archaeologists piece together a clearer picture of the Island's past. Arrowheads, stone tools, pottery shards, beads, glass, nails and numerous other items have been found. In addition, every summer, grade school children from the central Upper Peninsula have participated in a Youth Workshop to experience the thrill of unearthing a tiny piece of the past. Join us this Thursday to find out what exciting artifacts were found this summer!
