

The Haywire played a major role in the industrial development of Schoolcraft County. During its three quarters of the century of existence it carried iron ores, lumber, pulpwood, alcohol, livestock and mail. Having limited passenger accommodations, it carried passengers in both passenger cars as well as cabooses, in-rail-mounted cars and even on occasions in the locomotive cabs.

By 1968 "The Haywire" had outlived its usefulness. Trucks, cars and major class 1 railroads had taken over virtually all of its traffic and so on July 18th, 1968 at 12:01 AM it ceased to exist.

In 1970 the US Forest Service transformed the railroad into a trail known today as The Haywire Grade snowmobile and orv trail. The 34 mile recreational trail (Manistique to Shingleton) has been enjoyed by thousands for snowmobiling, four wheeling, hunting, fishing or just riding through the beautiful Hiawatha National Forest.
